Culture, Ethnicity Celebrated at Girl Scouts' Annual World Thinking Day Celebration

Glen Burnie—Girl Scouts from all around central Maryland will come together to celebrate World Thinking Day—a day when Girl Scouts and Girl Guides acknowledge their global sisterhood and experience the many cultures that are represented within these two girl-centered organizations. Girl Scouts and Girl Guides exist in 144 countries all over the world with a combined membership of 10 million girls. World Thinking Day is a day when these girls can connect and come together through one world-wide event.

Girl Scouts of Central Maryland will host its celebration on Saturday, February 24, 2007 at Michael's Eighth Avenue. Representatives from the Embassies of Columbia, Thailand and India have already confirmed their attendance. Dancing, music, dolls, fabrics and clothing from the
