Girl Scouts' Membership Specialist Receives Aetna Medicare "Magic Touch" Award

Baltimore—Girl Scouts of Central Maryland’s Membership Specialist Angela Dobson was awarded the Aetna and Magic Johnson Enterprises (MJE) “Magic Touch” Award. This award acknowledges the important role seniors play with their families and their communities. Each awardee, selected based on significant contributions they made in the following five categories: physical health, mental health, spiritual health, financial health or community health, were recognized at a luncheon held at the Reginald F. Lewis Museum of Maryland African American History & Culture. Over 100 local and national opinion leaders and their guests attended the event.

Ms. Dobson was born and raised in East Baltimore. She was educated in the Baltimore City Public School System, graduating from Dunbar High School and Sojourner-Douglass College. She takes pride in the fact that her 5 children are all college educated, professionals. Ms. Dobson has spent most of her career working with families and children. She believes that the Girl Scout’s new Leadership Experience program model keys: discover, connect and take action, are consistent with her personal philosophy of connecting and building strong leaders in our communities. “When our daughters discover their greatness,” Ms. Dobson stated, “they will connect with others and take action to make this a better world.”

“We are proud to have Angela on our staff and in the communities promoting our mission,” said Traci A. Barnett, CEO of Girl Scouts of Central Maryland. “Through the accomplishments of her children and this award, it is clear that Angela is an excellent role model.”
